A detached villa in the estate "DIO" that is located at a breathtaking location near Tyros, East Peloponnese. The construction of the houses combine hand made stone and coloured plaster. Their position on the plot achieves independence, full harmony with the surrounding forest and the local architecture. Their design targets individual privacy in every single home. The entire 2,500 sqm estate, comprising individual as well as common gardens, is endowed with wooden pergolas, walkways, trees, flowers and flower beds. The estate also includes a common swimming pool and 11 parking places.

The house is in L shape and has 75 sqm developed over two floors. On the upper floor are located the living room with a fireplace, a W.C, the kitchen and an uncovered veranda with wood pergola and a great view to the Aegean. The roof in this floor is made of chestnut timber visible underneath. On the ground floor are set two bedrooms and one bathroom. On the same level there is an individual garden, which is a special view to Aegean. The communication between the two levels is been achieved by an internal stair, while there is an external stone stair that connect the garden of the house with the first floor.
